

15 October 2001
93206267
tonyf@austmus.gov.au

Understanding our natural environment and cultural heritage

Reference for Todd Young

Todd Young was employed by the Australian Museum on the 13 October 2001 as a part of the school holiday program. He gave demonstrations on casting a range of reel types, and arranged for public participation.

The purpose of these demonstrations was to highlight a temporary exhibition at the Museum related to fishing in Sydney harbour.

We found his performance to be professional and entertaining.

All feedback from the public was also highly complimentary.

I would not hesitate to employ him again in the future.

Tony Fuary
Interpretive Officer
Public Programs Division
Australian Museum